

Car Collisions

Despite advances in car design and road safety, car collisions are still the most common cause of death and injury on UK roads; last year alone there were over 177,000 casualties, over 14,000 of which were killed or seriously injured. We have been representing the victims of road traffic collisions for over 25 years and have built up a team of legal experts able to offer you the expert advice and support you need.
